A London Newspaper Office.

A correspondent writes from London an ac count of his visit to the office of the London Times. He says: "There are a large diningroom and restaurant in the building, where all the man get their meals who wish, at cost, except a trifle above, which goes into a sick fund for the beaufit of the employes. In the base ment is a large machine-shop, where I saw at least twenty hands at work, and where a large number of the Walter printing machines have been built, bosides those empley:d in the office, In the press-room are eight of these machines is daily use, each one printing 12,500 in an hour. in all 100,000 in every 60 minutes they are in motion. In the paper room was a considerable store of paper in roels, weighing 800 pounds each, and 20 of those reels are used in every issue. They go to press about I a. m., and then get off before 3, and I was told by Mr. MseDonald that within twenty micutes after the last form is locked up the matter has been siereotyped and six presses are running. I was shown into a room where are wires connecting with all parts of the continent, and within arm's reach stands a type-setting machine, man-aged by two boys, to which the tolegraph slips are passed. They can set up and correct slips are passed. They can set up and correct in an evening as much as six columns of matter, which is sent down through a pneumatic tube, by which channel all the matter reached the stone. In snother room are two sets of wires running to parament from which full dispatches are received while the two Houses are in session. are received while the two Houses are in session. In a room connecting with the machine shops are two typemaking machines, which are kept constantly at work and Mr. MacDonald told me that he had found it cheaper to make type than to distribute it. The business room is on the first floor, and then there is an inquiry room, where information is furnished to those outside who have the right to ask it; several rooms that are devoted to the advertising department and who have the right to BER 1.; several rooms that are devoted to the advertising department, and others for the editorial staff, which is large. The establishment is complete in all its parts, and employes find beneath the roof every necessary comfort and convenience to be had in a good hotal? hotel."

COLORED STRAIGHTOURS. - The Pertersburg correspondent to the Richmond Dispaich says: "The printed circular bearing the signature of J. h. W. Cobran, chairman of the Straightut Republican Stato Executive Committee, declaring his adhesion to the "great liberal cause," and urging republicans to support and urging republicing to support the whole Cameron, Lawis and Blair tickeor,' causes much indignation among the straightonts here, who are open in their denemistion of Cochran's course, and do not heatfate to assign reasons for it. Movements are on foot today to hold a mass-meeting of the per y and to declare openly for the democratic ticket. The circular was dis ributed to prominent republi eans through the post affice in envelopes bearing the printed impress of Col. James D.

Brady. It is reported that Col. Brady this morning sent for a prominent colored straightout, and | Fish and Potach. told him that new that his leader had come over to the support of the cealitien ticket, it was time for all good republicans to fall in line J. Turner & Co., Baltimore, and do likewise. The straightout replied that and do likewise. The straightout replied that the Colonel was mistaken; that his leader had not gone over. "Why," the Colonel is repetted to have said, "did you not get the circular I sent you?" "Yes," was the reply, "but I would be compared to my leader.", "Well, J. W. Cochran is not my leader,', "Well, who is your leader then?' was asked, "John W. Daniel," was the responce, 'acd when he goes over I will go too," and such it is believed, is the semiment of all the straight-
